

Project Making Medicine Requirements

To be eligible for Project Making Medicine training you must meet the following requirements and prerequisites:

Prerequisites to attend Project Making Medicine:

- Completion of the TF-CBT web-based training located at <http://tfcbt.musc.edu>

American Indian/Alaska Native PhD or graduate students or graduate students in the Indians Into Psychology Program (IPP) are encouraged to apply.

The Project Making Medicine registration packet must include the following:

The Project Making Medicine Application Form. This link will take you to the Application Form that can be completed online and submitted via email.

Submission of a letter from each applicant that details:

- what you have done to prepare yourself for the training and upon completion how you will seek to implement trauma informed principles within your agency/services,
- how you will provide trauma-focused treatment after completing the training, for children and their families who are victims of child physical and sexual abuse,
- state that you are willing to participate in the evaluation of the training,
- remain connected to the project over the funding cycle, currently 5 years,
- participate in weekly teleconference calls,

Submission of a letter from each applicant's supervisor is required to ensure that the supervisor is in support of the implementation of evidenced based training and will allow for the weekly phone consultation time. The following items should be addressed in the letter:

- The applicant will be allowed to participate for the duration of the training and will be supported by the administrative/supervisory staff.
- Describe the degree of child physical and sexual abuse problem in the community and the number of cases presented in the past 12 months with an explanation of how cases were, or were not resolved. Express the degree to which the agency seeks to implement trauma informed principles.
- Agree to reimburse Project Making Medicine for applicant's expenses if the applicant does not attend training and expenses were incurred by Project Making Medicine. (If cancellation is unavoidable, please promptly inform Project Making Medicine staff in advance.)

Submission of a letter from each applicant's administrative leadership (Chairman, Chief, CEO, SUD) to ensure that the administration and programs are in support of the implementation of the training. The following items should be addressed in the letter:

- Recognition of the issues of child physical and sexual abuse in the local communities,
- Promote the implementation of culturally appropriate treatment protocol for children who are victims of child physical and sexual abuse.
